SIXBAU building materials and building systems

In addition to the distribution of our building services products, our company appears on the Hungarian building materials market in 2021 under the brand name SIXBAU with a new, innovative construction system.

With our SIXBAU brand, our main goal is to introduce and disseminate our outstandingly energy-efficient construction technology, which can be used to build modern, economical and healthy homes throughout the country. Our complex lightweight concrete construction system provides faster-than-usual construction, typically with less live labor requirements and more economically.

SIXBAU polystyrene lightweight concrete

Our construction technology is based on special polystyrene concrete, which is a good thermal insulator, durable, light and easy to form. It is a building material with many advantageous properties, from which we manufacture and distribute masonry elements, partitions and building boards under the SIXBAU brand.

SIXBAU gBlock masonry units

Using our SIXBAU gBlock lightweight concrete masonry units, solid load-bearing and frame-filling wall structures can be built that are able to meet the latest thermal regulations on their own. They are larger in size compared to other bricks and therefore allow much faster construction. As they do not require the use of additional thermal insulation, they can be used to build buildings that provide a higher level of comfort at a lower cost.

Fire classification: Not flammable, A2 - s1, d0

SIXBAU gWall partitions

Our SIXBAU gWall lightweight precast concrete partitions are made of three meters in length and in various thicknesses with groove-edge design. Due to their low weight, they do not require a separate primer and most of the time the use of bridges. GWall partitions can be well plastered and tiled directly with other wall coverings. Tubes that are not sensitive to moisture should not cause damage to them, and due to their compact and homogeneous material structure, rodents, insects and other pests do not typically move into them.

Fire classification: Not flammable, A2 - s1, d0

SIXBAU gPanel building boards

SIXBAU gPanel building boards are low-weight, universally applicable products, easy to machine, easy to shape and combine well with most construction materials. They are suitable for making masonry, as an internal formwork element, for apartment and bathroom renovations, for installation in bathtubs, and for subsequent thermal insulation. They are also excellent for plastering gutters, facade decorations and stucco.

SIXBAU Deck slabs

Our SIXBAU Deck slabs are lightweight structural slabs made of wood or steel beams, which can be used well in new buildings, building renovations and floor extensions. They can also be used in the construction of larger horizontal partitions, mezzanine ceilings, galleries or in the replacement of wooden ceilings in old buildings. The low self-weight of SIXBAU slabs means minimal extra load on the existing masonry, half their weight and a third of the weight of concrete slabs. They can be built quickly and easily, no need for cranes, formworks, supports.

SIXBAU Roof roof structures

Our prefabricated slab roof structures offer a fast and perfect solution with a guarantee of uncompromising quality and can be assembled in even a single day, thus significantly reducing construction time and costs. Our roof structures are space-saving, durable and can be built very quickly. Since the angled roof structure also includes the floor structure, the saved reinforced concrete floor as well as the internal load-bearing walls result in significant cost savings.

ÉMSZ membership

Our company is a member of the Hungarian Association of Building Insulators, Roofers, Tinsmiths and Carpenters, as well as the Hungarian Fire Protection Association. As a member of ÉMSZ, in addition to the guaranteed quality of our lightweight concrete building materials and corner roof structures, we are happy to pass on our professional knowledge and expertise to all professionals working in the construction industry.
